

Rights, Respect, Responsibility (3Rs)

Rights, Respect, Responsibility is an evidence-informed curriculum addressing the functional information and the skills necessary to adopt healthy behaviors. The 3Rs curriculum reflects the tenets of social learning theory, social cognitive theory, and the social-ecological model of prevention. This curriculum helps young people understand healthy and unhealthy relationships, promote respectful communication, and develop decision-making skills. The age-appropriate lessons address topics such as boundaries, consent, healthy relationships, preventing sexual harassment, and accessing help and resources. Learning information and skills for communication and safety contributes to a foundation that supports healthy relationships and healthy behaviors throughout a person's lifetime.
